

Learning through relationships

<http://www.rebeccaschool.org>

In Memoriam

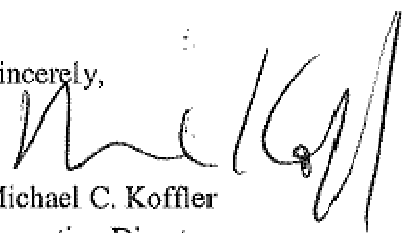

Stanley I. Greenspan, MD

Our students, staff, and families are deeply saddened to mourn the loss of our respected and cherished colleague and friend. The formative planning years for Rebecca School, in 2004 and 2005, were the early days of our close relationship with Stanley. His extensive library of authoritative books, over 40 titles, have thought through, demonstrated and proved countless critical and valuable tenants of developmental psychology. Stanley developed the DIR method of serving academic and clinical needs of the child on the Autism Spectrum.

Stanley dutifully focused on hundreds of case studies at Rebecca School, and his advice and intellect were so highly coveted by clinicians, academics and families. The vast knowledge that Stanley freely shared, so selflessly, to the betterment of the lives of so many, will be missed.

Our community benefitted, and the world benefitted from the genius and gift of Stanley Greenspan. We will always honor and treasure all that we learned from Stanley, and will further the sharing of his brilliant mind.

Sincerely,

Michael C. Koffler
Executive Director